

LEAD-FREE REHAU EDGE™

Plumbing system for safer drinking water

Water is the most precious element to human life; an essential nutrient for our health and well-being. Everybody has the right to clean water and this is what drives REHAU's commitment to always create the most innovative plumbing systems that deliver the safest and healthiest drinking water to the community.

REHAU is committed to creating innovative plumbing systems that protect water quality from the moment it enters a building to the moment it is used. By working closely with plumbing industry professionals, REHAU has developed a special range of fittings called Lead-Free (LF) REHAU EDGE™. The REHAU EDGE™ fittings are easily identifiable denoted by LF after the watermark (W). REHAU EDGE polymer fittings and pipes contain zero% lead. These fittings are designed to deliver lead-free drinking water, helping to keep people safe and healthy. The technology has been thoroughly tested and proven, meeting and exceeding some of the world's strictest water safety and hygiene standards.

Clean water matters. REHAU cares.
